Dear Parents/Guardians,

Building Bridges and the University of Oxford

Over the last year, we have been working alongside the University of Oxford and their Building Bridges project which aims to connect with primary schools to inspire the next generation of scientists. This year's theme is all about Into the Blue – exploring light and forensic science.

We are lucky enough to be welcoming scientists from the University to lead two workshops with Westgate on Wednesday 10th April.

As this is a fairly new project, the University has asked if they can take photographs of the children to use on their social media and as part of the project. Please can you complete the form below to inform us whether you wish or do not wish your child to be photographed.

Thank you

Miss Taylor and Miss Southam
